

Concert raises $10,000 to benefit symphony

OCALA — The Central Florida Symphony celebrated its affiliation with Central Florida Community College recently at a concert that raised more than $10,000 in corporate sponsorships and donations.

The event was Nov. 15 at the Harbor Hills Country Club in Lady Lake.

A night to remember

It was a night to remember Nov. 15 at the Harbor Hills Country Club when a benefit for the Central Florida Symphony was held.

The black-tie affair was "just wonderful," according to Cash Pealer of Central Florida Community College. "It was a glamorous night, and the camaraderie was great. We enjoyed the dancing, with music provided by the Central Florida Symphony under the direction of Bob Kuzminski," Pealer said.

During the evening, a painting by artist Brenda Heim of Ocala was presented to the college. The painting was of a new logo designed for the Central Florida Symphony. It was presented to Marge Renfro, president of the CFCC Foundation.

CENTRAL FLORIDA SYMPHONY — The Ocala Festival Orchestra formally announces its name change to the "Central Florida Symphony" and celebrates the affiliation with Central Florida Community College at a Big Band Concert benefit and dance tonight. This social event of the season is sponsored by Harbor Hills Golf and Country Club in Lady Lake and is co-hosted by the Honorable Jack Clark and Dr. William Campion, CFCC President. The evening starts at 7 p.m. with a cocktail party and hors d'oeuvre's. This wide array of gourmet appetizers will be adorned by a trumpet ice sculptor as a center piece, designed by Chef Leahy. Following the cocktail hour, there will be dancing to the sounds from the Big Band Era, an art gallery, raffles for Bahamas Cruises, Las Vegas Vacations and much more. Black tie optional. A benefit for the Central Florida Symphony, at $55 per person. Gallery proceeds to benefit FAFO. For more information call 732-7222 or 629-6697.
